WorkforceLogic Earns Microsoft Gold Certified Partner Status

Certification Acknowledges Competency, Customer Satisfaction and Microsoft Expertise

SAN FRANCISCO, California, February 23, 2009 – Microsoft has officially certified WorkforceLogic as a Microsoft Gold Certified Partner. This is the highest level of achievement obtainable in the Microsoft Partner Program.

As stated on Microsoft’s website, “Gold Certified Partners represent the highest level of competence and expertise with Microsoft technologies, and have the closest working relationship with Microsoft.” To qualify for this top rank, a company must have a specified number of employees certified in Microsoft development and networking technologies. Additional requirements include industry expertise, proven customer satisfaction and dedication to providing superior solutions and services.

WorkforceLogic has successfully developed and made available a software application called WorkforceLogic Essential, which is a vendor management solution (VMS) for companies of all sizes. This scalable solution, which leverages various Microsoft technologies including ASP.Net and Microsoft SQL Server, provides companies with the visibility they need to manage costs, track headcount and reduce the compliance risks associated with the utilization of contingent talent.

Eric Tarasoff, Director of Development for WorkforceLogic, says, “As a provider of technology-based solutions and services, it is important that we deliver solutions and applications that solve our customers’ problems. By becoming a Microsoft Gold Certified Partner, WorkforceLogic further strengthens its ability to bridge the gap between technology and business demands by gaining access to exclusive training and technical support from Microsoft.” He adds, “To our customers, it demonstrates a commitment to expertise with Microsoft products and a closer relationship with the company.”

Microsoft encourages businesses to showcase their specific expertise by earning one or more “Microsoft Competencies.” Although only one Competency is required to achieve Gold Partner status, WorkforceLogic opted to secure both the “Business Intelligence Competency”, which focuses on mastery of Business Intelligence Platforms and/or Performance Management Solutions, and the ISV/Software Solutions Competency, which reflects a company’s accomplishments developing and marketing packaged software solutions based on Microsoft technologies.

In recognition of their efforts, Microsoft Gold Certified Partners are entitled to an array of benefits, including: free and discounted software licensing; exclusive round-the-clock support; a technical services coordinator; and priority listing in Microsoft directories.
