WorkforceLogic and Sam Donaldson Discuss National Policy Direction For corporate HR Hiring Practices

SONOMA, California, October 2, 2006 – Invitation-Only Event To Explore Impending National Security and Immigration Legislation and its Impact on Corporate Hiring Regulations and Compliance

WorkforceLogic, a provider of workforce management software and services, will be hosting a thought leadership discussion featuring veteran reporter Sam Donaldson. The panel-style industry discussion will be held October 25th at the Mansion on Turtle Creek in Dallas, Texas, beginning at six o'clock.

"Today's national debates about homeland security, immigration and I-9 legislation are shaping the future of HR regulations and compliance requirements for our corporate clients," said Gary Nelson, Chairman of WorkforceLogic. "As a leading vendor in the workforce management industry, WorkforceLogic wants to help to set the agenda for these new regulations. It behooves us all to take an active role in anticipating how changes in regulations will affect day to day business and so we are hosting this important industry discussion."

Sam Donaldson is national political reporter for ABC News and former co-anchor of This Week with Sam Donaldson and Cokie Roberts and PrimeTime Live, as well as author of Hold On, Mr. President! He served as ABC's chief White House correspondent, covering Presidents Carter, Reagan and Clinton. Mr. Donaldson is recipient of many honors including four Emmy Awards and three Peabody Awards.

WorkforceLogic helps Global 2000 companies more efficiently manage their outsourced suppliers and contingent workforces, and is one of the largest managed service providers in the talent management industry.
