WORKFORCELOGIC AND ASG RENAISSANCE ANNOUNCE NEW DIVERSITY PROGRAM

Workforce Renaissance Focused on Managing Diversity Spend and Suppliers

Sonoma, Calif. February 19, 2008 – WorkforceLogic and ASG Renaissance are launching Workforce Renaissance, a minority business enterprise that combines payroll, vendor management and HR consulting services with minority recruiting, retention and supplier diversity services.

“The goal of Workforce Renaissance is to help companies improve the success of their human capital investment through efficiencies, best practices and improving the customer’s ability to harness the benefits of increased minority content,” said Gary Nelson, WorkforceLogic Chairman and CEO.

Workforce Logic, a provider of workforce management solutions, including managed services, risk mitigation, payroll processing and software, will provide payroll processing, HR consulting, and supply base management services.

“Partnering with ASG Renaissance allows us to increase the resource reach for both multicultural human capital talent attraction and retention and diversification of the supply base to include more minority-owned business participants,” said Nelson. “By combining our forces we can present an integrated solution to the marketplace that ensures that clients can achieve their diversity goals by working with a qualified woman- and minority-owned business.”

In addition to full payroll services and Vendor Management capabilities, Workforce Renaissance will offer Mosaic Advantage member services. Formed by ASG Renaissance, Mosaic Advantage is a group of pre-screened and pre-qualified minority- and service disabled veteran-owned businesses whose members offer a broad range of services including Human Capital Outsourcing, Staffing Services, Marketing and Communications, Customer Service, Consulting and Training, IT Support Services, Program Management, and Engineering Support.

“ASG spent many years building and managing diversity content in supply chains and determined that these very supply chain participants could together capture more service opportunities as a team,” said Elizabeth Ardisana, ASG Renaissance CEO. “We formed Mosaic Advantage to highlight and promote the combined services and capabilities of these proven program participants.”

“We are very pleased to be able to provide the services of Workforce Renaissance to the marketplace,” continued Ardisana. “Diversity goals are a key part of most companies’ business strategy. This joint venture enables us to provide a robust and complete solution for meeting those goals.”

WorkforceLogic provides talent acquisition management, risk mitigation and workforce management solutions to many of the world’s largest companies. The company’s services also include payroll capabilities. The stability and organic growth of this self-funded company in the marketplace is unique in an industry where consolidation and venture capital investment is widespread.

WorkforceLogic continues to extend its range of offerings and capabilities, including professional services, SAS 70 Phase II certification and the expansion of its global offering to the European Union in 2008.
